

GREYHOUND RACING INJURIES & ONGOING CARE

All greyhounds in the Greyhound Adoption Program come from a racing background, where some may have experienced injuries during their career.

Prior to entering the program, any known injuries have been treated and cleared by the trainer's veterinarian. These greyhounds are then assessed as suitable to move forward into adoption.

However, as with any previous injury, healing and long-term outcomes can vary, just as they do in people.

What this means for you

While all greyhounds have been medically cleared for adoption, some may have a history of previous injury and could show mild, ongoing effects as they continue to settle into their new home and routine.

You may notice:

- Mild stiffness
- A slight limp, especially after rest
- Small changes in movement as they continue healing.

Ongoing monitoring

We strongly recommend:

- A follow-up check with your own veterinarian after adoption
- Ongoing observation of your greyhounds:
 - Mobility
 - Comfort levels
 - Willingness to exercise.

Your veterinarian may recommend:

- Additional imaging (e.g. X-rays)
- Adjustments to exercise
- Pain management or joint support.

Important to know

While many greyhounds recover well, some may require further treatment or management over time. This can include conditions such as osteoarthritis, which can develop after injuries as your dog ages.

Being aware of this allows you to:

- Act early if something doesn't seem right
- Keep your dog comfortable and mobile
- Build a proactive care plan with your veterinarian.

Our commitment

We aim to be transparent about each greyhound's history so you can make an informed decision and feel confident in your adoption.

If you ever have concerns after adoption, we encourage you to:

- Speak with your veterinarian
- Reach out to our GAP team for support.

Many greyhounds with previous injuries go on to live happy, comfortable lives in loving homes. With a little awareness and ongoing care, they make wonderful companions.
